Margaret Entrekin Hudson
Probate File Abstract

Margaret died 14 October 1972, less then two months after her husband, Ernest, who died 22 August 1972. Margaret succumbed to lung cancer, although she was likely very grieved upon her husband's death as they had been married 56 years. They did not have children.

Ernest left a will with Margaret as the beneficiary, excepting seven charities who would receive monetary gifts.

Upon Margaret's death, the Exchange National Bank became the executor for both Margaret and Ernest's estates. The balance of the estate went to next-of-kin, which in this situation, because Margaret died after Ernest, the next-of-kin were Margaret's two surviving siblings, Karlene Fike of Anniston, Alabama and Walter L. Entrekin of Miami, Florida. Walter would pass away during the probate timeframe, and his share would pass to his children.

Margaret's estate was entered into probate on 18 August 1973 and remained in the probate stage until settling on 05 May 1975. The value of her (and Ernest's) estate was $252,097.10. After taxes, the value was $244,506.27.

Much of this value was retained in two trusts. One trust being the "Ernest and Margaret Hudson Living Revocable Trust" ($150,974.56), and one trust being the "Margaret Hudson Living Revocable Trust" ($50,227.35). These two trusts totaled $201,201.91 of whom seven organizations were beneficiaries receiving $28,743.13 each, viz: (1) El Paso County Society for Crippled Children; (2) Billy Graham Evangelistic Association; (3) Colorado Springs Community Trust Fund; (4) Salvation Army, Colorado Spring location; (5) Shriners Hospital for Cripple Children in Salt Lake City; (6) University of Colorado Foundation, Boulder, Colorado; (7) YMCA in Colorado Springs for its building fund. The remainder of Margaret's estate was divided between her brother, Walter L. Entrekin (his heirs), and sister, Karleen Entrekin Fike, each receiving $20, 680.38.
